Wrinkles In Your Neckties? Here's How To Keep Them Fresh!

The secrets to keeping your neck ties wrinkle free forever!

Even if you've only worn your tie for a few hours, if it's made of silk it's bound to get more than a few wrinkles in it that will detract from its quality look.

To quickly and easily remove these pesky and troublesome wrinkles from your neckties after you untie them, just gently wrap the tie around your hand, then put the rolled tie on a flat surface like in a drawer or on your dresser and let it sit over night. Your tie should look good as new in the morning

But if you're in a hurry and need to wear that same tie for a cocktail party or evening engagement, just hang the tie over the towel rack in the bath room while you take your shower. The steam from your shower will cause the wrinkles in the fabric to release and your tie will look brand new.

A note of caution here. If your tie is silk (and it should be) make sure that you hang it far enough away from the shower that it won't get any water spray on it by accident. Water can easily stain or spot silk.

When traveling, be sure to roll up your ties as well to help them stay fresh when traveling. It's a great way to keep your ties from wrinkles and damage in a tightly-packed suitcase.
